CEIAG DEVELOPMENT PLAN

King's Academy Prospect

2021-22

Presented by
Siobhan Gallivan – Careers Leader

This plan is written with an awareness that all sessions can also be offered remotely. In accordance with the school Covid policy. VLR /MS Teams have been established for every year group to map the learning objectives for each Key Stage as well as provide a unique guidance follow up service for all student appointments.

CEIAG BENCHMARKS PLANNING

Benchmark 1	A stable career programme
What good likes like <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Every school and college should have an embedded programme of careers education and guidance that is known and understood by students, parents, teachers, governors, and employers. • Every school and college should have a stable, structured careers programme that has the explicit backing of the senior management team and an appropriately qualified person responsible for it. • The careers programme should be published on the school's website so students, parents, teachers, and employers can access and understand it. • The programme should be regularly evaluated with feedback from students, parents, teachers, and employers as part of the evaluation process. There should be a named, appropriately qualified careers leader who can be contacted by all providers to facilitate events.

Intention of CEIAG	In CEIAG current programme	Developments	Date	Comments/evidence
The careers programme has strong backing from the head teacher, senior leaders, and governing body. It needs to be embedded into the structures of the school and its position should be recognised and secure. This means the programme	Careers SLT lead. Governor review Careers Plan on website. can continue to be developed to meet the needs of students. It is not entirely dependent on the goodwill of individuals or Vulnerable to competing education priorities.
The programme is coordinated and led by an appropriately qualified trained and supported by SLT careers lead, whose views are considered in the decision-making structures of the school. This means that the role needs to have the backing of the senior leadership team. The role of the careers lead needs to be wide enough to support contributions from specialists in related roles, such as the coordinator for students with special educational needs and disabilities, and for teachers embedding careers in subject learning. Students, parents, teachers, and employers know what is in the programme. The programme is set out clearly on the school's website and promoted through the school's social media accounts weekly newsletters and local media outlets. Students should discuss the programme in the school council and parents should know what to expect in the meetings arranged for them throughout the year. Messages for teachers are reinforced through email staff handbook, meetings, and curriculum guidelines. Employers invited to participate in the programme know clearly what to expect, how their contributions fit in and how they will benefit. Benchmark 2	Learning from career and labour market information
What good looks like <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • All students and parents should have access to high-quality information about future study options and labour market opportunities. They will need the support of an informed adviser to make best use of available information. • By the age of 14, all students should have accessed and used information about career paths and the labour market to inform their own decisions on study options. • Parents should be encouraged to access and use information about labour markets and future study options to support their children.

Benchmark 3	Addressing the needs of each pupil
What good looks like <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Students have different career guidance needs at distinct stages. Opportunities for advice and support should be tailored to each of these stages, with diversity and equality embedded in the school's careers programme. • A school's careers programme should actively look to challenge stereotypical thinking and raise aspirations.

- Schools should keep systematic records of the individual advice given to each student and subsequent agreed decisions. All students should have access to these records to support their career development.
- Schools should collect and maintain accurate data for each student on their education, training, or employment destinations for at least three years after they leave school.

Intention of CEaIG	In CEaIG current programme	2022-20 developments	Date	Comments/evidence
The school has a clear strategic overview of a student's career needs, knowledge and skills at each stage of their learner journey, as well as the decisions they are likely to face. This information sets an aspirational framework of learning goals and includes contextual factors, such as aspirations and family backgrounds. It recognises the scope of improving social mobility by identifying the student's barriers to overcoming the bridges of support they need to maximise their life chances. The school takes regional and national labour market information and destinations patterns into account. It grasps the regional and inter-school differences in the proportion of students securing apprenticeships at both key stage 4 and key stage 5. The school also addresses the significant differences in the take up of science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM) subjects and higher education progression on both a regional and gender basis. Students benefit from provision targeted to their needs. Students with special education needs and disabilities (SEND) face additional challenges in progressing from school to further learning and work. In mainstream schools, the needs of vulnerable and at-risk students are met through a specifically designed careers programme and additional support, including mentoring. Well-kept records enable staff and partners to track the consistency and impact of the careers and enterprise programme. Staff know what students' career education and guidance needs are and where they are in terms of their career planning. This draws on insights from tutors, careers adviser, mentors, and the students themselves. Benchmark 4	Linking curriculum learning to careers
What good looks like <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • All teachers link curriculum learning with careers. • Science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM) subject teachers highlight the relevance of STEM subjects for a wide range of future career paths. • By the age of 14, every pupil has had the opportunity to learn how the different STEM subjects help people to gain entry to a wide range of careers. • All subject teachers emphasise the importance of succeeding in English and Maths.

The school adopts a strategic approach to linking curriculum learning to careers and develops a coherent rationale for embedding careers in subject learning. This is not about making a subject more popular. It is about making subjects more relatable and relevant to everyday and working life. Real-life contexts and examples can make subjects easier to understand and help students feel more engaged in their learning. Employers and schools work together in creative ways to ensure students build a rich picture of the world of work and are well prepared to take up workplace opportunities.
